DESIGN INTENT: Create spaces which optimize the engagement and disengagement between activities so that the developing mind tools the information to comprehend the interconnected parts which make up the whole.

VISION: A place where today's children can be equipped with the knowledge and the physical ability to ask questions and seek answers, on their way to discovery. Reading, writing, speaking, listening, and viewing are the tools used to formulate the organization of data gathered, recognizing and defining problematic situations and apply self-determined resolution and guidance.
